Tasmanian Blackwood

(Acacia Melanoxylon)

This wood is also used for decking and flooring, but it is also used for 'fine' furniture and joinery, which is the wooden parts of buildings e.g. stairs, doorways. This wood is said to have a range of colours, from a light golden-brown to deep brown. This wood lasts for long periods of time and is very workable. It is also described as 'solid' and stable.

One of the many colours of Tasmanian Blackwood

Fijian Mahogany Decking